THE PROBLEM

THE PROBLEM

TELLING YOUR STORY TO PARTNERS

We understand you take pride in what the RLC does. Taking action in the community by connecting residents to resources, spotlighting their voices, and creating space for people from all backgrounds.

However, you are having trouble communicating your impact and telling your story to potential partners who could provide resources to further your mission.

To support RLC in its mission, we plan to implement a marketing plan based on people-focused storytelling. By focusing on your impact on individuals, you can best illustrate your value to partners. We have connected with organizations that have expressed an interest in partnering with you.

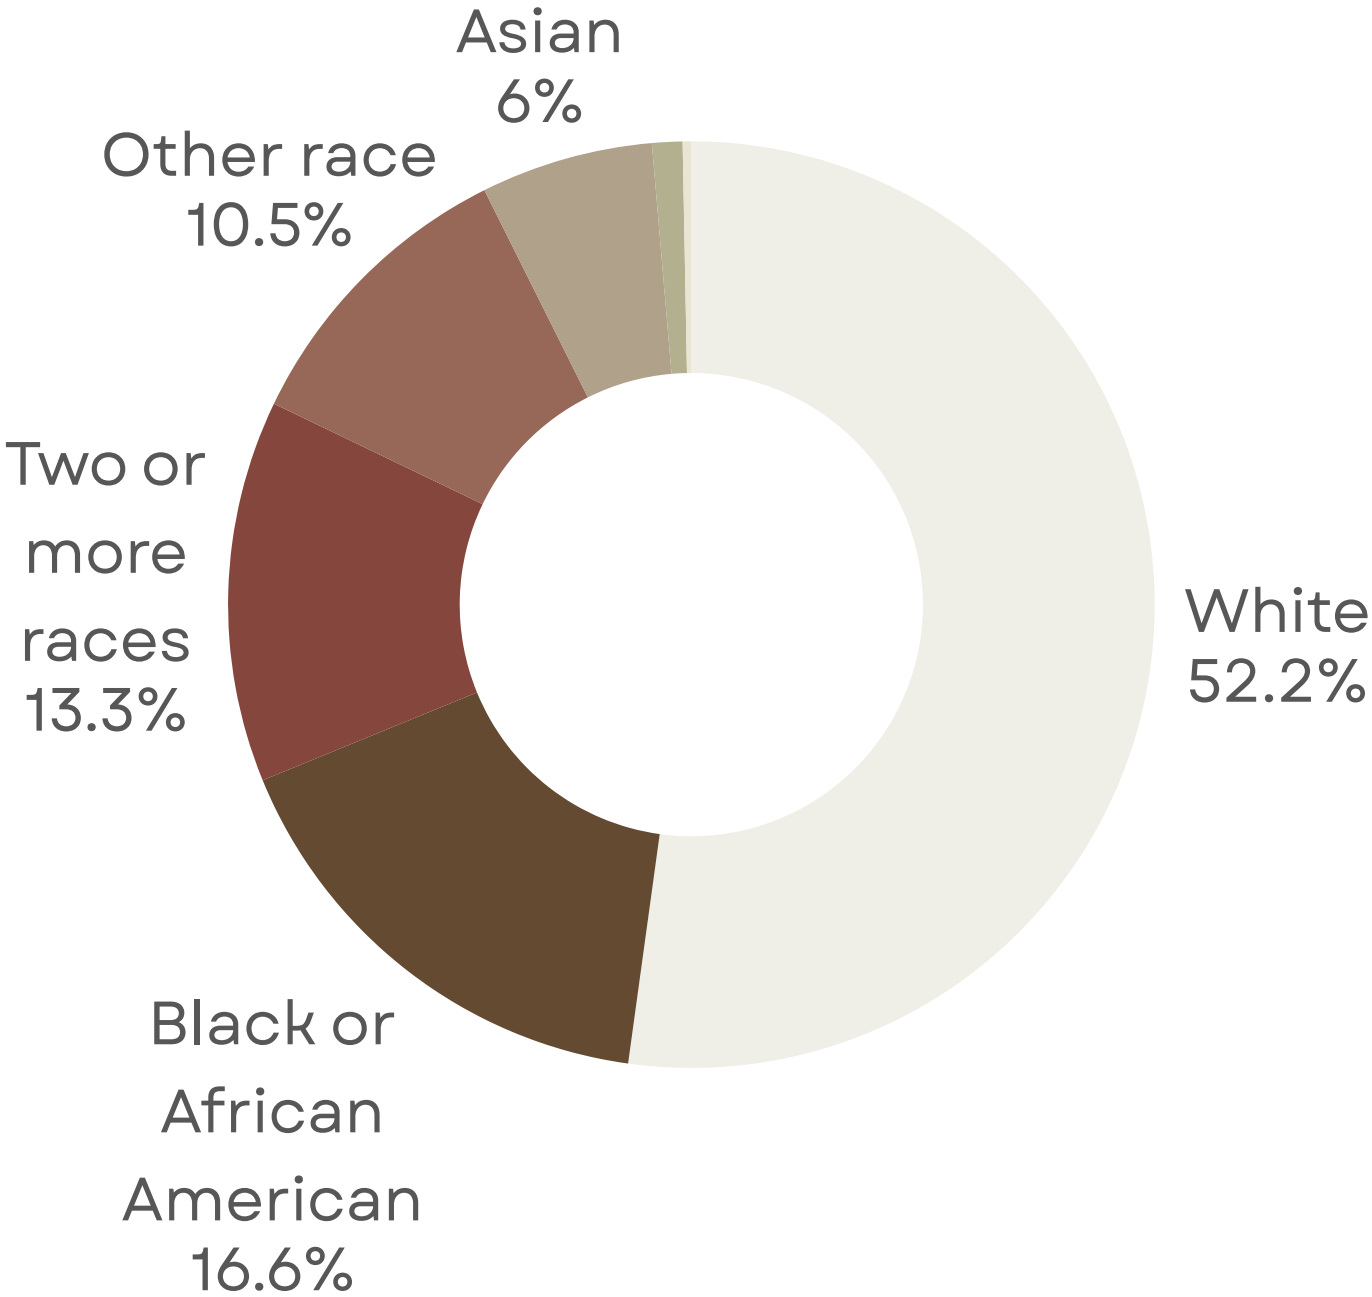

CAPACITY BUILDING

KEEP THE FOCUS ON PEOPLE -- NOT ON ADMINISTRATIVE TASKS

Our consulting group can bring capacity building to RLC by providing tailored expertise and support to enhance your organizational effectiveness, streamline your administrative tasks, and bring you in contact with potential partners. Specific examples include a thorough newsletter template, at-hand partnership contacts, and a functional website with important links like donations, contacts, and a volunteer page.

Population by Race

While the largest population of people by race in Aurora is White, Aurora is the most diverse city in Colorado. Racial groups such as Black or African American, Asian, Islander, and Native make up a good portion of this graph. Additionally, the Hispanic population is not demonstrated here.

Ultimately, the chart illustrates the numerous groups that Aurora is responsible for accommodating. The RLC has an essential role in meeting the demands of these groups, and we intend to further your impact using the power of storytelling.

MARKETING

MARKETING STRATEGY

VISION: PEOPLE FOCUSED STORYTELLING

Our vision is for the RLC marketing to convey the importance of your work and impact through the people whose lives they change. By telling the story of the RLC through its people you will appeal to partners on a deeper, more personal level.

MARKETING

ESTABLISH YOUR PLATFORMS

01 Website

Implementing a website focused on readability, easy-access, and relevant information will be incredibly beneficial to current and prospective partner's perception of RLC.

02 Facebook Group

Rather than a page, we believe the RLC should have a Facebook group. This would allow communication between members in a community space with little-to-no administrative management.

03 Newsletter

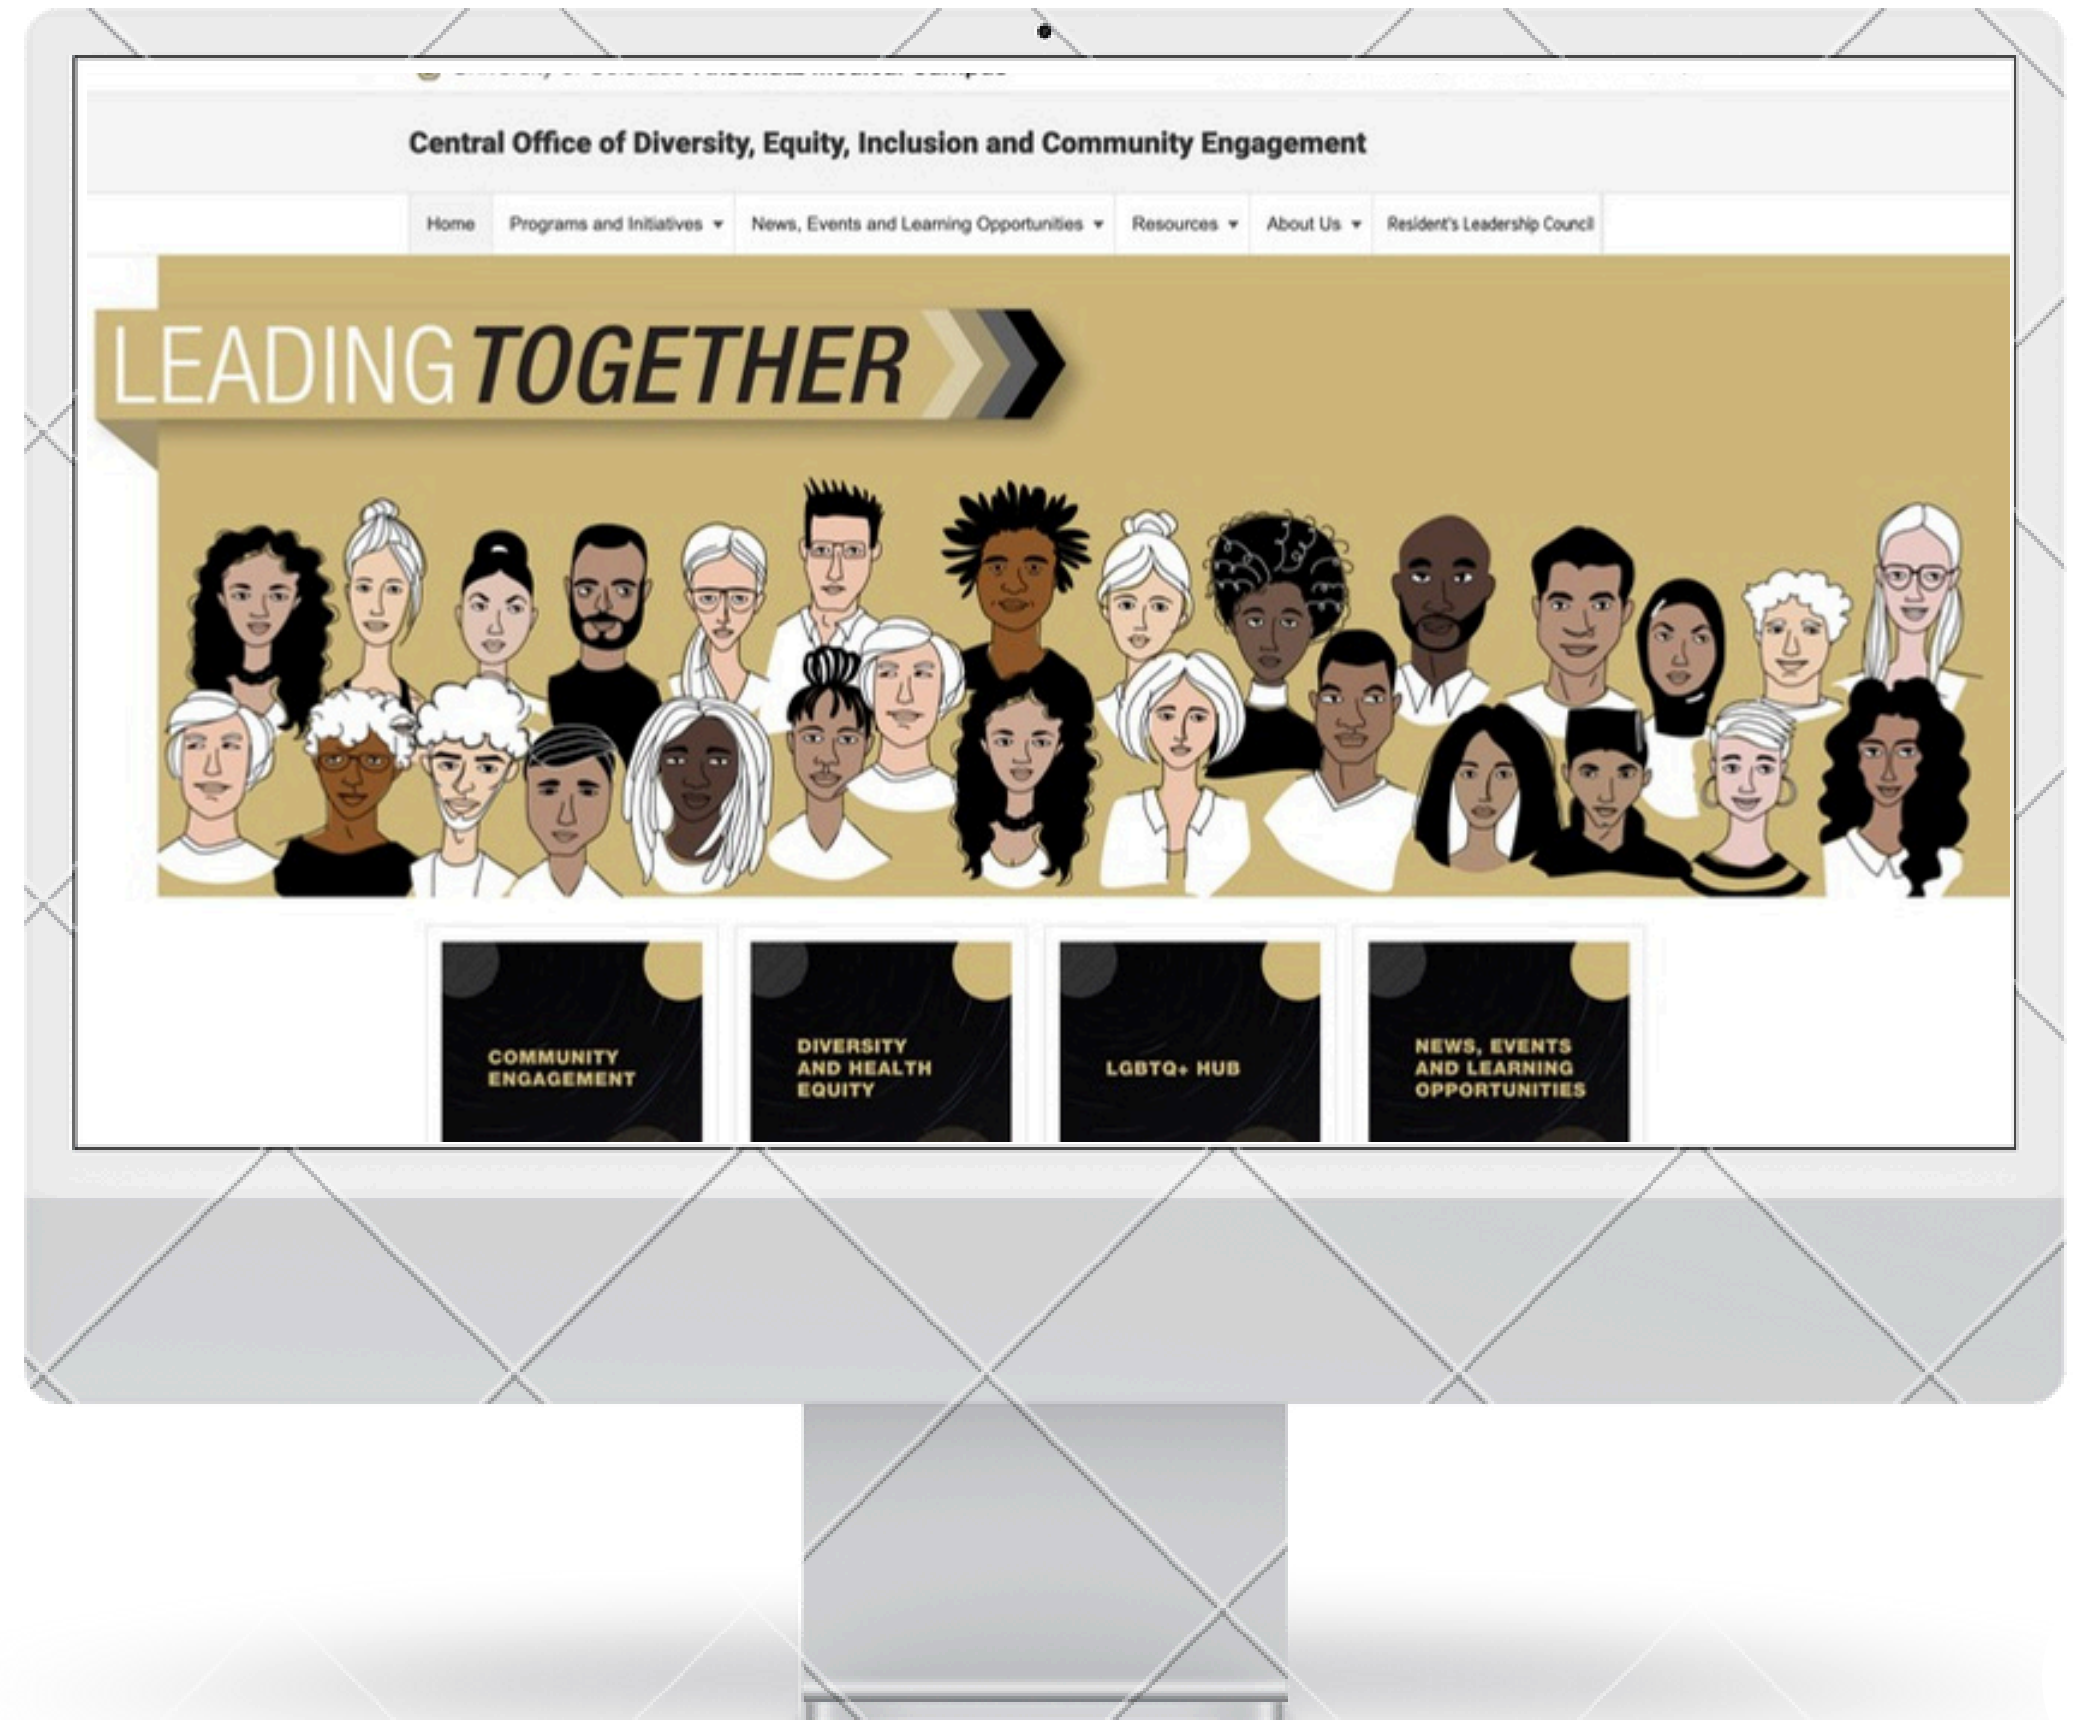

Many businesses struggle with generating relevant content for members and partners. Our solution allows for simple, informative newsletters to be delivered to any willing participants with as little work as possible.

04 Community Events/Hosting

Joshua Nicholas, the community engagement manager at the APD, recommended that the RLC could host and attend community events such as Global Fest or Summer Vibes. You could host small businesses in collaboration with El Alba and local Aurora businesses.

Website Redesign

HIGHLIGHTING YOU

IMPLEMENTATION

1. Contact branding
2. Use new logo/get logo approved - we love the logo you already use, and it needs to be utilized more often to be recognized. Get it CU-approved, and put it everywhere!
3. Purchase the domain - website domains can sometimes be pricy, but all funds spent are well worth it!
4. Add pages - having easy-access pages makes the user experience better and demonstrates a dedication to organizational perception
5. Apply the new website - use the structure we have provided to renew people's perception of RLC
6. Upload new photos - input photos for homepage, contacts, and current events

Resident Leadership Council:

Resident Leadership Council

The Resident Leadership Council (RLC) is a group of community leaders dedicated to improving the quality of life of residents in Aurora and the surrounding neighborhoods by promoting equitable access to education, health, and economic opportunities. The RLC was established in 2004 as a grassroots volunteer organization associated with the University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Campus in order to represent and be a voice for residents who live in Aurora, especially those from immigrant, refugee, and under-served communities.

Our Mission & Vision

We build relationships by empowering local leaders, advocating to preserve the diversity of the community and using its values to improve the quality of life for our families and neighbors.

We envision an informed community through equitable access to quality schools, health resources and sustainable careers that will foster economic development.

Learn More about the RLC

Connection Campaigns

The RLC believes in building personal and on-line relationships with Aurora residents. The RLC's first major responsibility was to conduct a Connection Campaign in the community.

In a Connection Campaign, RLC members meet with their respective networks to learn about their priorities, hopes, concerns and other issues of importance.

Between 2004 and 2007, RLC members conducted three major Connection Campaigns, meeting and listening with over 1000 residents in Aurora. These campaigns revealed issues related to education (mostly quality schools and educational attainment) and economic development were in the top three of over 20 priority issues identified overall. The priority of improving education and economic well-being led the RLC to develop two action-oriented initiatives to address the concerns expressed during the first two Connection Campaigns.

Education Work

The RLC hosted a candidate forum for Aurora State Board of Education, drawing 1000 attendees with interpretation in five languages. This forum educated the community on the Board's role in local education and strengthened ties with voters Rebecca McElroy.

They also trained parents to speak at Aurora Public School board meetings, enabling them to advocate for quality schools in North Aurora. Thanks to the RLC's efforts, residents are now better equipped to collaborate with school leaders to enhance students' achievement in the community.

El Alto Cooperative

In 2007, Aurora residents approached Gabriela Jacobo from El Alto, Bolivia seeking help to start a clothing business due to lack of children access and funding. Recognizing the need for culturally relevant business support, Gabriela and community leaders founded El Alto Cooperative.

El Alto nurtures Aurora's local entrepreneurs and small businesses, primarily immigrants and refugees, offering business incubation, shared services, and access to a commercial kitchen and food trucks. With 90% of its members identifying as people of color, El Alto promotes economic empowerment.

As a worker-owned cooperative, El Alto fights gentrification in North Aurora, offering an inclusive economic model that builds community wealth and stability. It promotes Aurora's diversity while fostering economic growth in immigrant and refugee communities.

THE RLC VOLUNTEER DATABASE

Community Members

- RLC relies on their volunteers to participate in events and expand their impact.
- Maintaining a comprehensive database may be helpful in finding potential interns to work on things like social media, outreach or event planning.

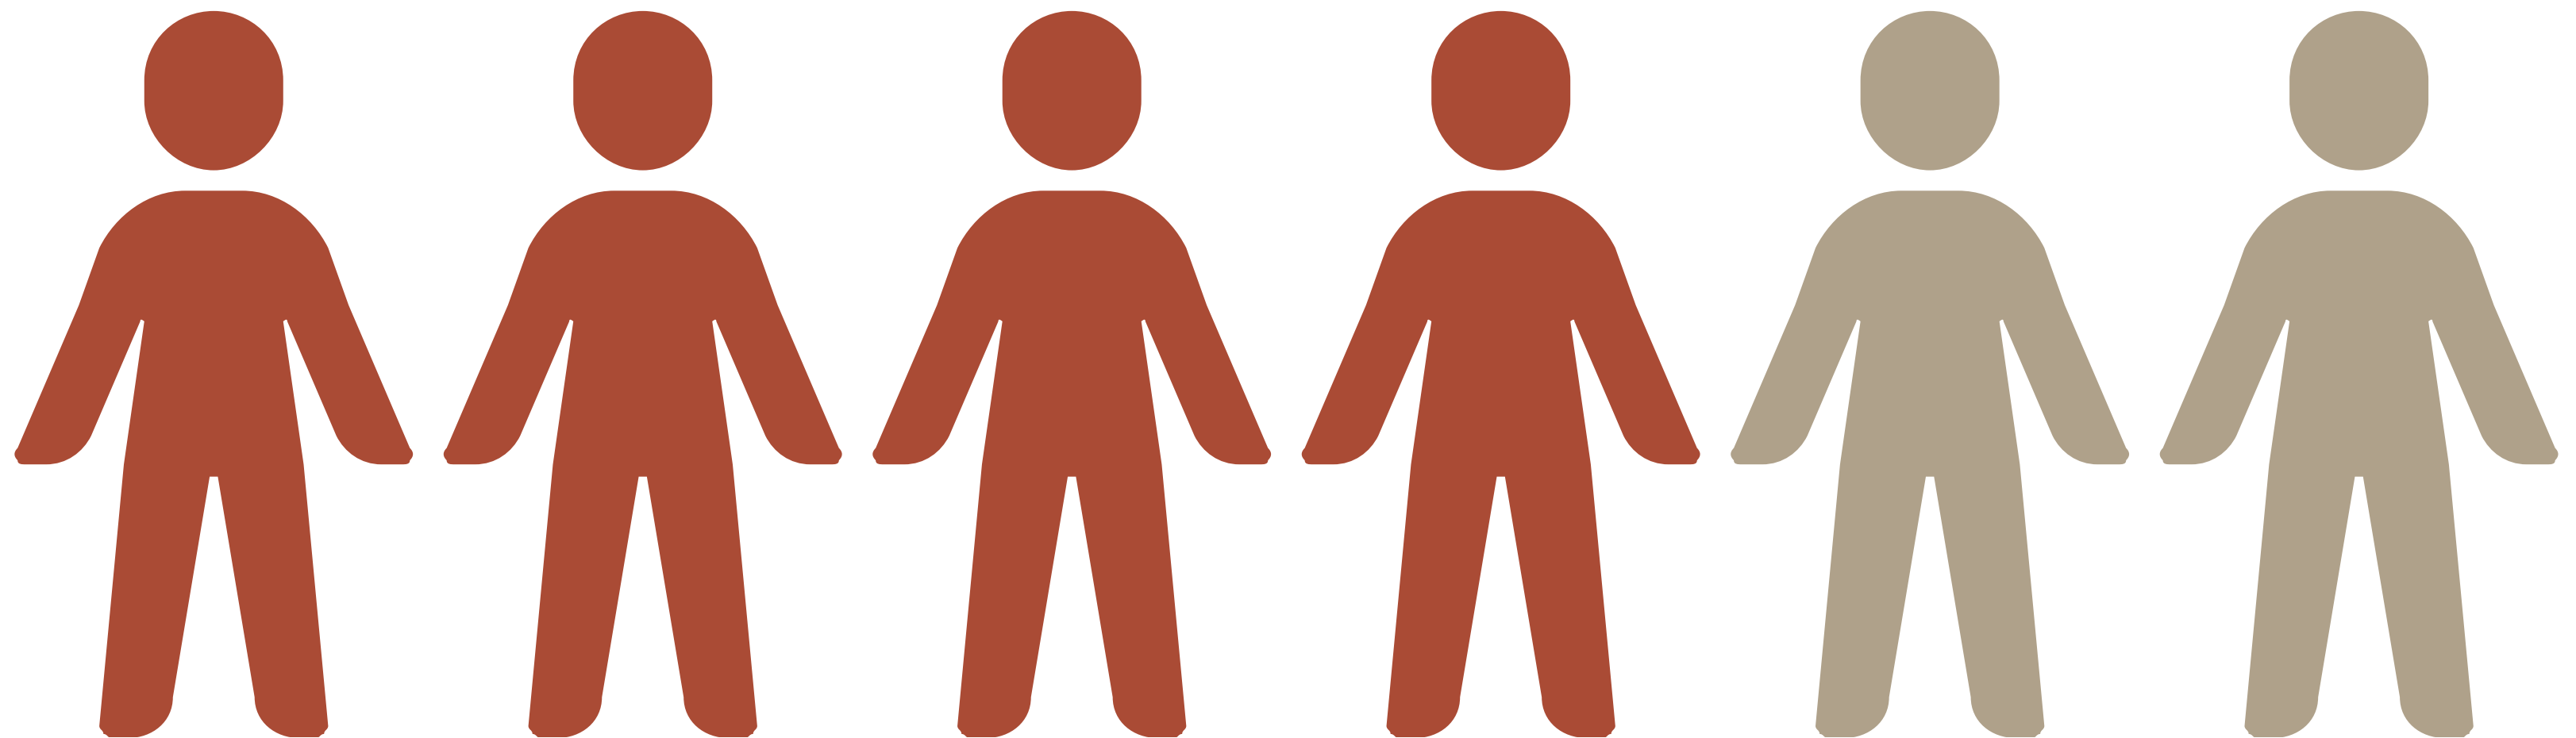

How would the database look like?

- Demographics: Name, Age, Languages Spoken, Place of Residence (city)
- Skills they have!
- Such a database can allow you to find individuals willing to work as interns to manage your social media.

SURVEY RESULTS

Kitt Consulting conducted a survey consisting of students at Aurora high schools to see how interested they'd be in contributing to the RLC.

67% OF RESPONDENTS WOULD DONATE

FACEBOOK GROUPS

MAXIMIZE YOUR COMMUNITY OUTREACH

While many other teams are focused on making you a social media page, we believe that you can utilize Facebook Groups to be able to connect the community with one another. It is a great way for people to share any resources they have, events that are happening in the community, and other companies can also provide certain insights and resources they can offer to help. The great thing about a Facebook Group for the RLC is that it does not have to be constantly updated and modified as members of the group are the ones doing posts in it, so it is fairly easy to manage.

FACEBOOK

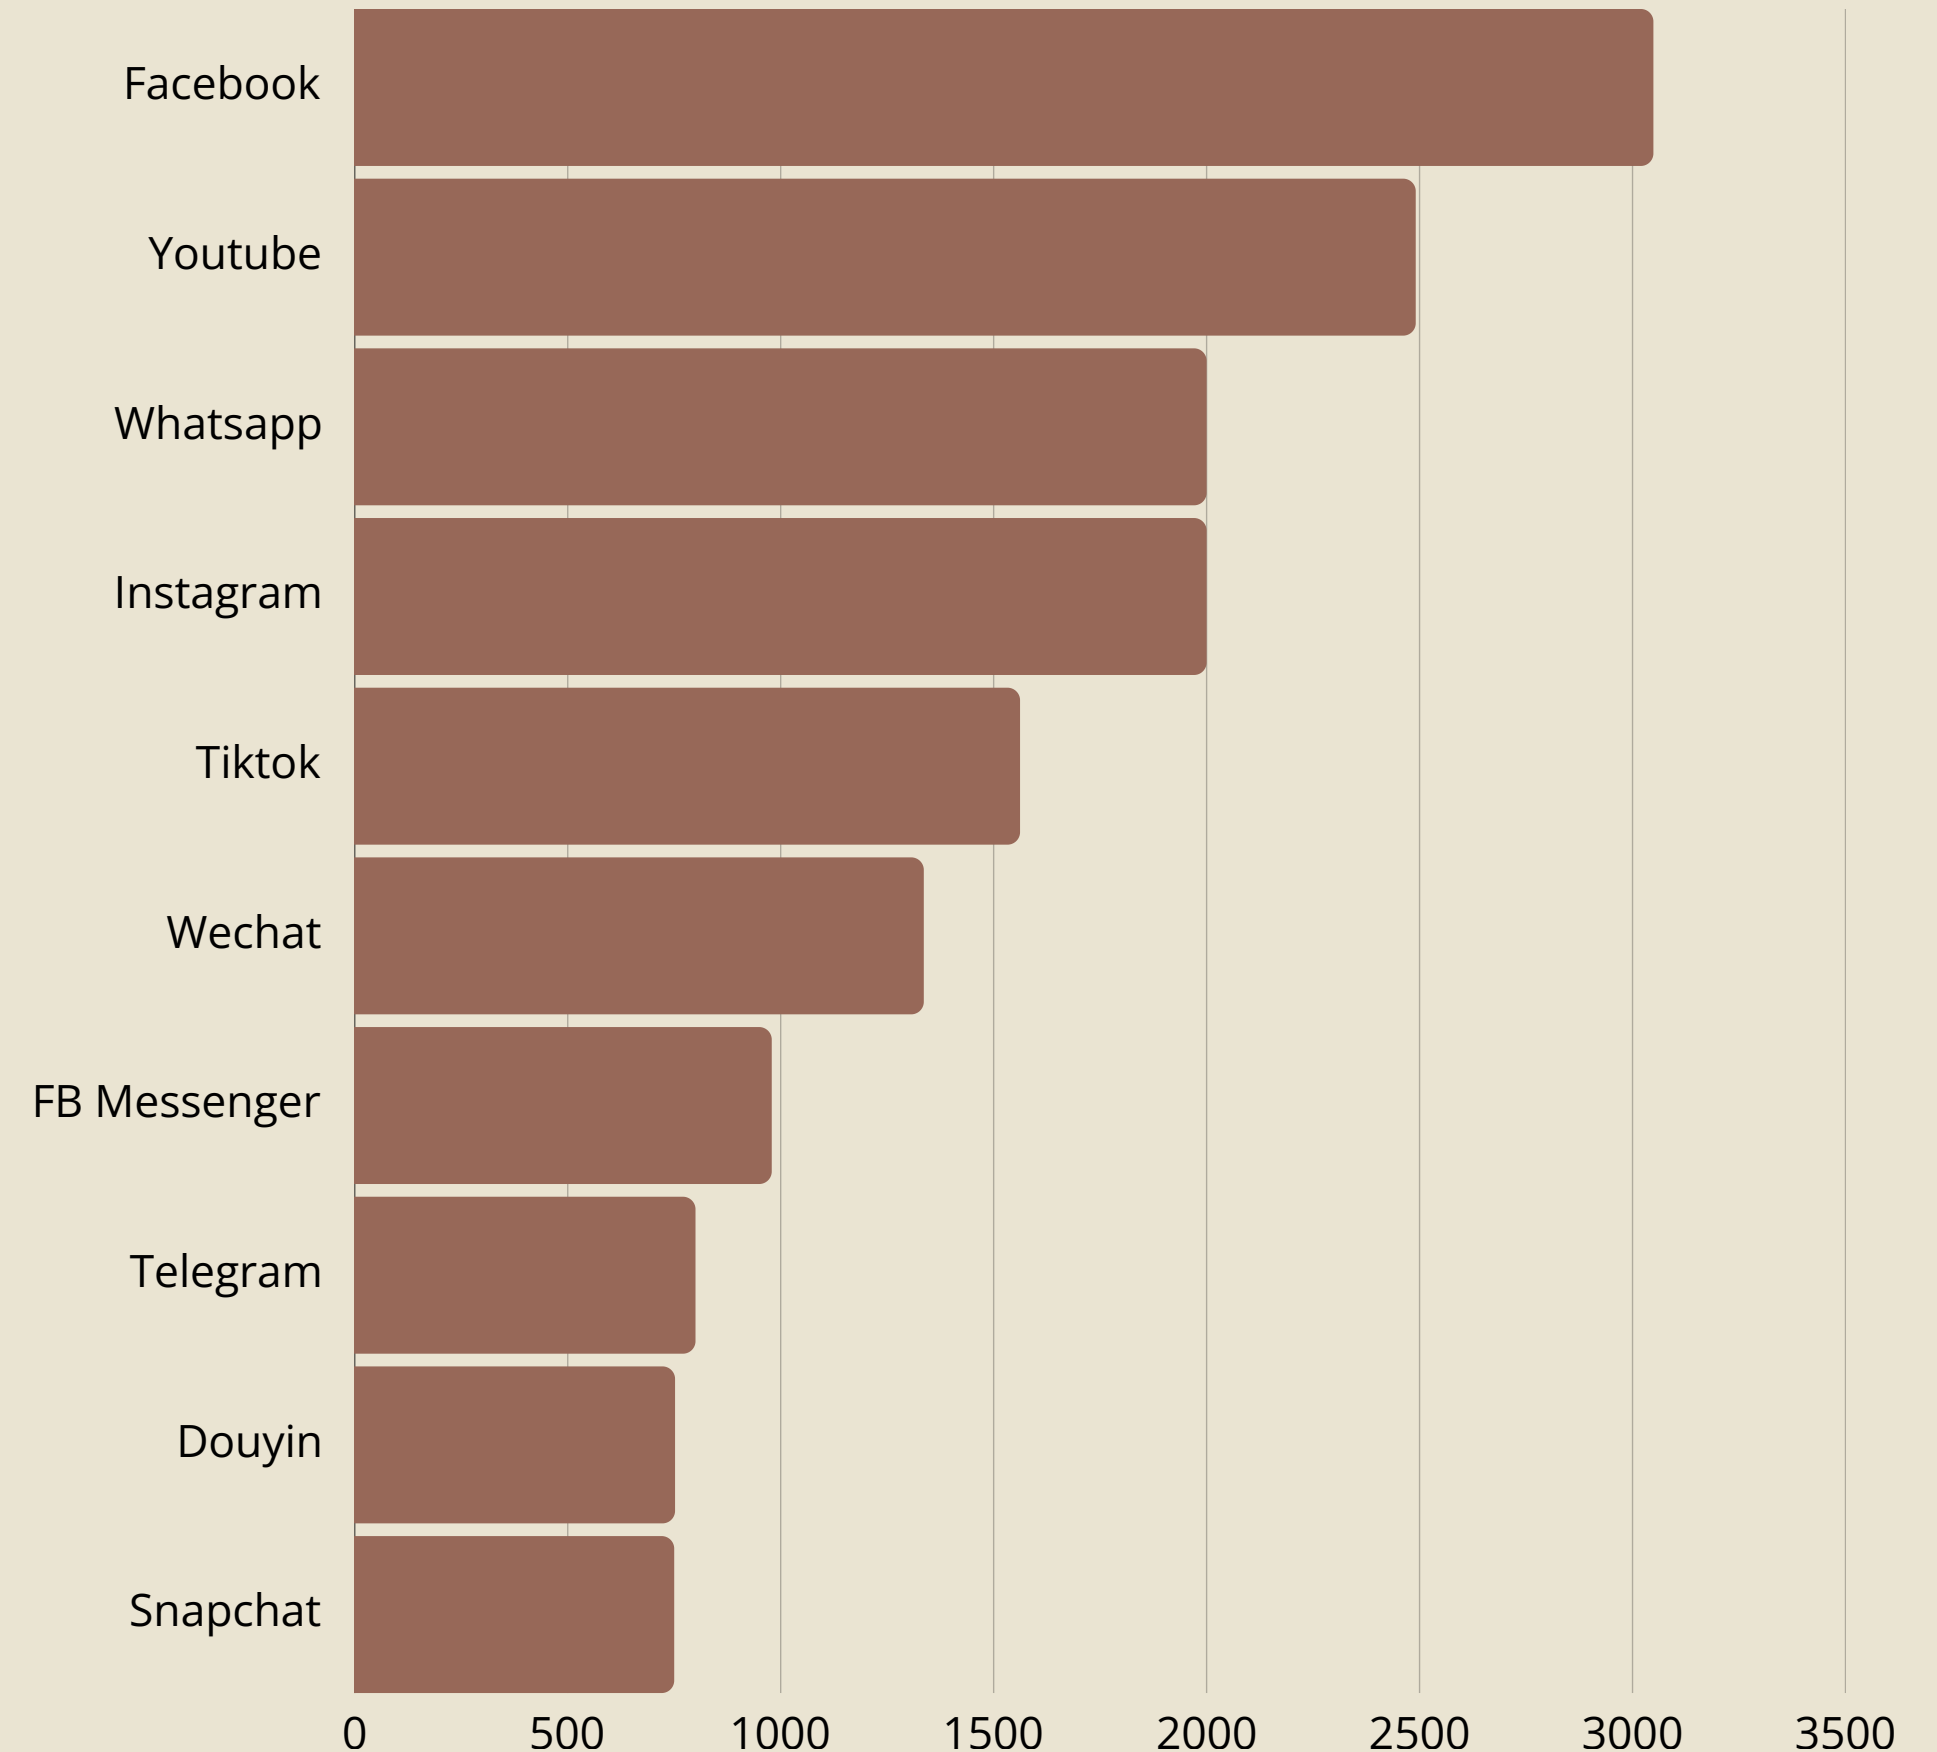

66% of Americans use Facebook

31% of Americans get news from Facebook

Users use Facebook for the following:

1. Message friends and family
2. Post/share photos or videos
3. Keep up to date with news/world

GLOBAL SOCIAL MEDIA USAGE

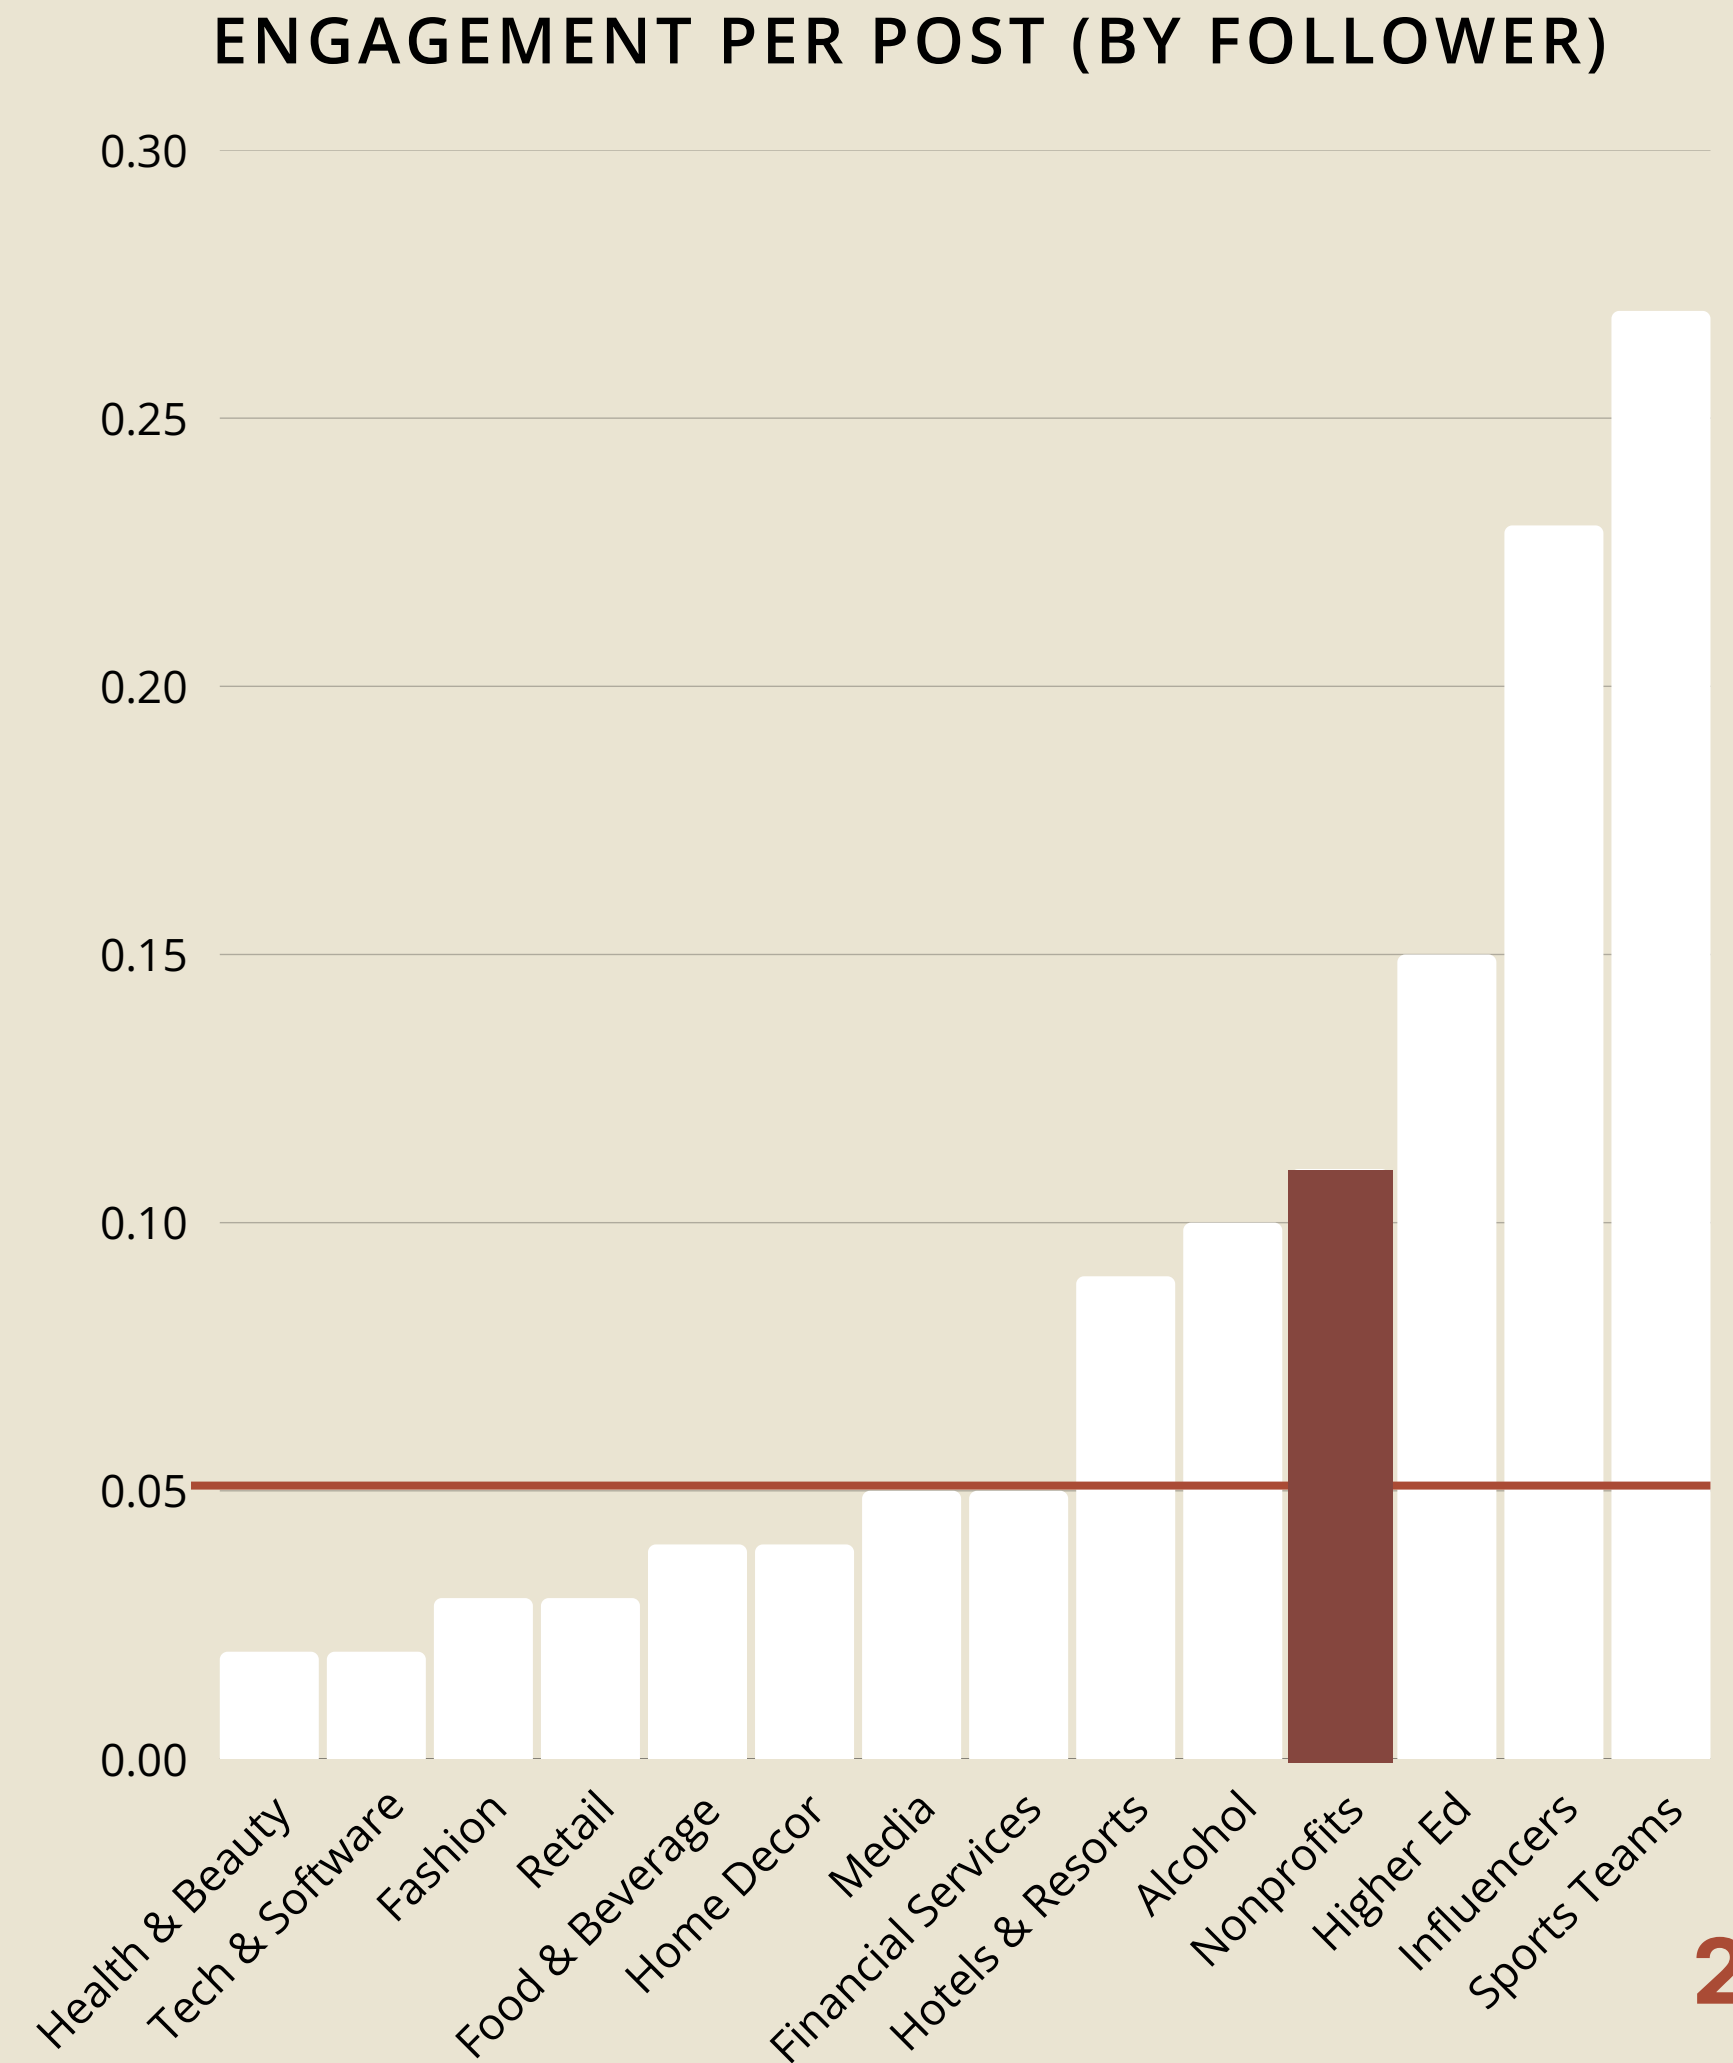

FACEBOOK

Facebook engagement rate varies by industry.

The median across all industries is 0.064%

Nonprofits (and similar entities) have an engagement rate of 0.11%, which is above the median and has the potential to be even higher.

Additionally, certain types of media tend to get more interaction than others. Live videos and posted videos typically get the most responses, with images, links, and status following.

NEWSLETTER

DEMONSTRATE IMPACT & TELL YOUR STORY

By creating a newsletter, you will be able to demonstrate the direct impact the RLC is having on the community to both members and partners. It keeps everyone informed on the outcomes of recent events, what is happening in the community, and information for upcoming events.

Additionally, the newsletter can better tell your story by sharing personal stories of the people who have been impacted by the RLC. Lastly, you can include a volunteer sign up to encourage more consistent volunteering.

Multilingual Community Action Meeting was a success!

We have been actively addressing community concerns such as youth mental health, safety, and gun violence through a series of meetings and action plans.

In response to the need for inclusive collaboration, we hosted a multilingual Community Action Meeting on March 23, 2023, ensuring representation for non-English speakers.

At this meeting, we engaged city representatives, including the mayor, city council members, and school officials, to address community concerns and propose solutions.

Key outcomes included commitments from representatives to involve the diverse community in decision-making processes, improve transparency, collaborate on resource allocation, and prioritize prevention programs. Additionally, there were commitments to support non-English speaking families on mental health issues and explore restorative justice programs in schools.

The RLC and city representatives pledged to work together closely on these initiatives, emphasizing community-driven approaches and inclusive governance.

Stories of Impact: Volunteer Spotlight

Today we are highlighting some of our amazing volunteer resident leaders who help shape our community.

These four have lived in Aurora their whole lives and been involved in the Resident Leadership Council for 4 years and counting.

They have helped spread the message and vision of the RLC through their efforts.

Their involvement in the RLC has helped them connect to their community and have their voices heard. They have made a difference working to solve issues within the community such as facilitating discussion about mental health, education, and safety.

Their efforts demonstrate the true power and impact volunteers can have on the community around them. We look forward to seeing them continue to grow.

COMMUNITY EVENTS

HOSTING AND ATTENDANCE

Hosting community events can increase RLC's visibility within the Aurora community and strengthen community involvement.

By doing so, RLC can expose itself to more volunteer and partnership opportunities. This can solidify the RLC's reputation and expand its brand within Aurora and other communities.

Festivals

Summer Vibes

(June 20, July 18, Aug 1)

Global Fest

(Aug. 17)

Tabling these events will boost community engagement and attract an influx of new members to RLC, either as participants or volunteers. We will also build and strengthen relationships with government organizations in Aurora to gain more resources. Additionally, we can ask partners to get involved to enhance community presence.

WellPower

01 Education

Community Colleges of Aurora believes that a partnership would be mutually beneficial for youth populations to have effective and essential access to health.

02 Gun Violence

Aurora Save is a program dedicate to mitigating youth gun violence in Aurora. AuroraSAVE and RLC share a similiar outreach model where individuals from each organization go door-to-door to inform others about their program.

03 Mental Health

Programs like I Matter, One Love, and El Centro de las Familias are great resources to form partnerships with to help demonstrate a commitment to mental health.

EDUCATION

COMMUNITY COLLEGES OF AURORA

LatinX Community Taskforce

The LatinX Community Taskforce was recently launched with the goal of better serving members of the LatinX community.

One of their ideas focuses on economic mobility for an entire family. If a recent high school grad had been recruited to take classes, we should then reach out to their parents and see if they would benefit from ESL classes or a Translation and Interpretation Certificate,

Community Service

Another beneficial connection could be connecting students at CCA in leadership programs like Rotoract and PTK to community service within RLC.

Students would have the opportunity to give back to the community and RLC would have motivated volunteers with inside-knowledge of their community and goals.

Promise Program

Community Colleges of Aurora Foundation offers a Promise Program for students looking to get an Associate Degree.

By partnering with Community Colleges of Aurora, RLC would have the opportunity to educate young people from less economically affluent backgrounds, which would be incredibly beneficial to pushing forth RLC's values.

She has recommended CCA's Promise Program, LatinX and Immigrant Community Taskforce, and community service partnerships between student leaders and the RLC.

GUN VIOLENCE

AURORA SAVE

Aurora SAVE and RLC could be fantastic partners as their goals align with one another. Furthermore, Aurora SAVE is very well connected with the APD so a partnership between the two could help get more community members to share their testimonies and ensure more action is being taken to prevent youth gun violence.

LONG-TERM SUSTAINING SUCCESS

DENVER

What is it?

SVP (Social Venture Partners) of Denver is a nonprofit who serves as a vital connector between local change-makers across the Denver metro area and beyond. They specialize in ensuring community organizations excel in achieving their goals and pursuing their mission.

How they can help?

Because RLC relies on their community members due to their small team, SVP can help optimize organization and work distribution. Additionally, they can offer a helping hand on how to better get community members involved with RLC. They can help better execute the initiatives that we have presented to you today! Plus their summer session is right around the corner!

PARTNERSHIP

COST-BENEFIT ANALYSIS

Although community organizations need to partner with other companies for various beneficial reasons, many of these community organizations have difficulties appealing to these companies. Therefore it is necessary to establish an outline of shared values and benefits that RLC can cater towards its partners.

Alignment of Goals: This increases collaboration and cooperation, It is essential for RLC and its collaborators to share common goals to maximize efficiency in working toward their desired outcome

Branding Power: RLC has to offer branding power to its partners, for example, a for-profit could fund RLC's initiative that supports youth mental health in underprivileged areas, which can benefit the for-profit by boosting their CSR goals.

Resource Optimization: RLC may face resource constraints, such as limited funding or staff. Partners can pool their resources and avoid duplicating efforts while doing so efficiently.

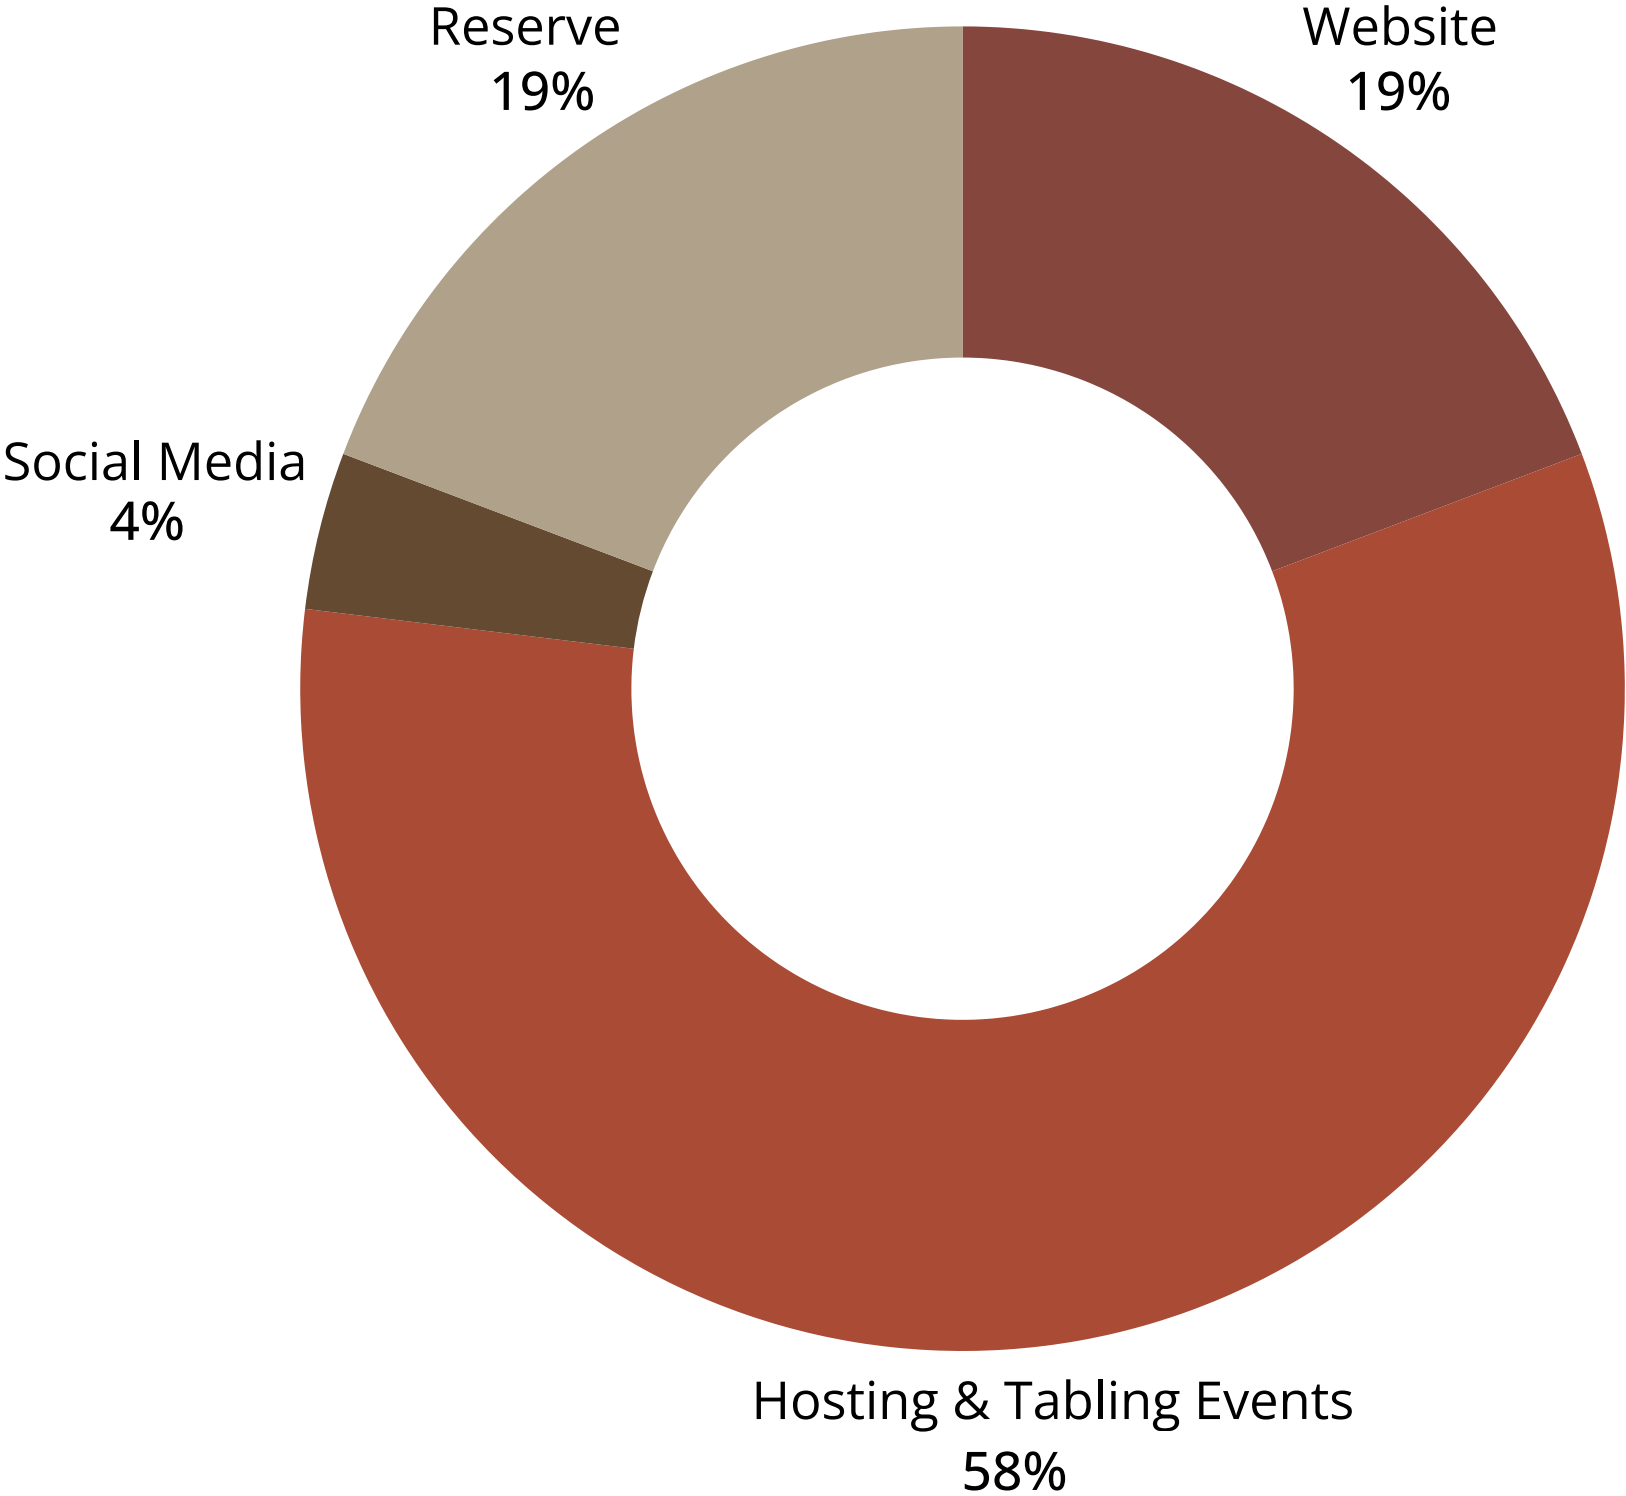

Collective Learning and Innovation: Through the exchange of ideas, best practices, and experiences, partners can improve their strategies, and adapt to changing circumstances more effectively.

Increased Accountability: Shared outcomes create a framework for accountability among partner organizations. When all parties agree on the desired outcomes and commit to achieving them, they hold each other accountable for their respective contributions and responsibilities.
